

You may as well try to keep house without a cook stove as without first-class bread, and nice bread cannot be made without using the best of flour. It makes no difference what your yeast is, or how good a cook you have, if you have not the right flour you have poor bread.

Probably no one article entering into house-keeping causes more trouble and divides more families than poor bread.

About the first question asked of an applicant for the position of cook is, "Can you make nice bread?" and the reply generally is, "Yes, with nice flour."

Any lady would be amply justified in discharging a cook if she did not make nice bread with for if she cannot make the best of bread with that she cannot with any.

Richelieu Flour

BROWN IS RUFFLED

Over the Criticisms Passed Upon Him by Some Territorial Papers.

GUTHRIE, March 22, 1900.

EDITOR LEADER—The Daily Oklahoman, of Oklahoma City, an unhappy circular with the circulation of a lobster, prints the following:

E. E. Brown, an attorney of Parsons, Kansas, has moved to Guthrie for the purpose of imposing himself upon the Democracy of the Territory as god-father. Mr. Brown's long suit is anti-fusion. He imagines he is the whole works. He was promptly set down upon in Kansas, and we apprehend the same treatment for him here.

This editor does not seem to be very well posted on Kansas politics. The organization that I started, known as the Sunflower League, did not declare against fusion, as was my intention, but elected an anti-fusionist as president, who has built up the organization so that now it has upwards of 250 clubs. Before an organization of this kind was perfected in Kansas the Populists made demands on the Democrats that were simply out of all reason, as, for instance, in 1895 they telephoned to the Atchison Democratic convention that they would permit the Democrats to nominate a lieutenant governor. It is different now. Mr. W. F. Sapp, the president of the Sunflower League, is also a member of the state Democratic committee. They held a meeting in Topeka a short time ago and met the Populist committee. The result was that the Populist committee agreed to give the Democrats the presidential electors, secretary of state, treasurer and several other officers, besides the majority of congressmen. No one would think for a minute that the Populists would concede anything in Kansas had they not known that the young Democracy, of which Mr. Sapp is the head, would turn them down cold, which would mean no offices; and offices is what they are after, regardless of principle.

I doubt very much that Kansas will have a fusion ticket this year, as there seems to be a disposition on the part of the Populists to repudiate the action of their committee, and I know that the rank and file of the Democracy will not concede to them more than they have through their state central committee.

If the Pop editor of Oklahoma will read upon Kansas politics he will be better prepared to pass judgment, and refrain from criticizing one who has no inclination to become a "god-father of the Democracy in Oklahoma," or any other state.

In conclusion, I wish to add that this is the first time I have been accused of being an attorney. I never studied law, nor did I ever have a client. For his enlightenment I will say that my business is insurance.

Yours truly,

E. E. BROWN.

Biggie Swine book is just as valuable for a man with one hog in a little sty as for a man with a hundred hogs feeding on the sheltered side of a barbed wire fence. Its chapter on "Cholera" is alone worth ten times what the book costs. You ought to have it. The Leader says so. A doctor writes: "You certainly have a very valuable prescription in the formula for Orloff's Russian Grippe, Cough and Cold Cure, which I have used in my family with astonishing results. My wife had been suffering for four years, during which time I exhausted all my medical skill in her treatment. Finally a doctor friend recommended a trial of your remedy. Of course I had no faith in any patent medicine yet I tried it, and, as I say, with such astonishing results that now I unhesitatingly advise its use in both slight and severe cases. It is also fine in croup. I know of nothing in medicine to equal it."

ODDS AND ENDS OF THIS EARTH

Many Regions of the Globe Are Yet Unknown to Civilized Man.

Your men with a taste for travel, adventure and discovery have been lately in the state of mind indulged in by Alexander, who sat down and wept because there were not more worlds to conquer. For the comfort and edification of such, Henry M. Stanley, the distinguished ex-traveler, publishes an article on the odds and ends of earth, which are still left open, or rather closed, for exploration, and which, with industry and economy, could be made to yield something to the traveler. Mr. Stanley begins with the continent of Africa, which still offers certain parcels of ground, one of them 700 miles long and fifty miles wide, which have never been thoroughly explored, or, indeed, explored at all. Besides the work of original exploration there is in Africa an immense amount of supplementary exploration to be done. There are mountains 15,000 feet high to be climbed and written up in detail. These mountains all have names which may be found in any good central Africa lexicon. The great African lakes, all discovered since 1850, are known only, as it were, in outline. Their depth or their altitude above the sea level is unknown as yet. The Nile has a few more sources yet to be discovered and so has the Congo. There are believed to be active volcanoes in Africa which have never yet been studied by white men. There are scattered around in the forests and mountains of Africa whole tribes who have never seen a white face. These are all to be looked up. Besides Africa, the continent of South America offers great tracts of almost unknown country. An American steamer occasionally ascends the Amazon, but the vast forests on the head waters of that stream—its tributaries themselves great rivers—is still a mystery. The great chain of the Andes has been crossed in many places, but has not been traversed lengthwise. A great part of the Andean Cordillera is completely unknown, says Mr. Stanley, both as to its topography and geology. The Cape and Calo railroad has been spoken of as depending on circumstances, but one great explorer's railroad is open for business already. It is the great trans-Siberian all-through route from one side of Asia to the other. South of this road lies one-fifth of the continent of Asia, stretching away to the Himalayas, which is good and fruitful ground for the explorer. Thus Africa, South America and Asia are yet to be explored in large sections. The arctic regions still present their hidden attractions and the traveler may still seek them, cheered on by the hope of freeing and starvation.—Kansas City Star.

A FAIR YOUNG ORATOR.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Lease, the famous woman lecturer, has a charming 17-year-old daughter, Evelyn Louise, who bids fair to rival her mother in the art of oratory. Miss Evelyn is now studying law in New York, where her mother has taken up a residence, with a view to a politico-legal career. She is the youngest woman lecturer in the United States. She made her debut as a public speaker at a meeting of the People's party in St. Louis eight years ago, beginning with a child's recitation and launching into a woman suffrage speech. Miss Lease has a sweet, but powerful, voice, personal magnetism and a fine presence.
